Schools Pledging to Support CSforAll

These 70 districts and 288 schools - together representing a total of 3076 schools, across 39 states - have signed the CSforAll pledge to support the expansion of Computer Science to every K-12 student in the United States.

These schools and districts pledge to: support professional development for CS teachers, administrators, and guidance counselors; encourage all students to learn CS; offer a variety of opportunities throughout their grade levels for CS learning; and assign a primary point of contact in their school or district for CS education.
