

Subject: public access

Date: December 28, 2011 6:37:49 PM EST

Regarding the issue of public access, I believe that publications resulting from government sponsored research should be freely available to the public. Data being collected prior to publication need not be made publicly available because the researchers have priority in publishing their own results, but after publication the papers and supporting datasets should be publicly accessible.

Gary D. Stormo, Ph.D.
Joseph Erlanger Professor
Department of Genetics
Center for Genome Sciences
Washington University Medical School