Dear Ms. Espinel,

I am a semi-retired record producer, having produced several hit records in the late sixties for the Monkees, and the Turtles. Royalties from these efforts have made it possible for me to "keep the bills paid" to this day, and continue writing and creating in various fields. The loss of income from unlawful sales is something I am concerned about, because it affects me directly. It is important the our government do all it can to protect these intellectual works from domestic, and most importantly, overseas piracy. The benefits to the U.S. government are not to be overlooked, as most honest folks like myself who receive these royalties, are more than willing to pay our taxes. I urge you to consider whatever means necessary to effectively police the distribution and sale of all intellectual property of U.S. citizens.

Thanks you,
Douglas F. Hatlelid
