Dear Office of Information and Regulatory Affairs Hunt:

•The analysis proposes to devalue the life of a human over 70 to 2/3 that of the rest of the population and lowers the established EPA price tag of a human life from $6.1 million to $3.7 million.

•If analysis is fully applied, regulations for air pollution, toxic waste cleanup, food labeling and other quality of life issues could be weakened or not even implemented at all—and our senior citizens will feel the brunt of it since their health is the most vulnerable to dirty air and unhealthy food.

•As an American citizen who is a senior citizen, I find that devaluing an elderly person's life is unethical and unmoral.

Sincerely,

Peter Felsenthal
